Canserve program delivers more than just meals to cancer patients

I remember my mom meeting me in the INTEGRIS Southwest Medical Center lobby with tears in her eyes. I remember the way my grandma looked lying in her hospital bed. She didn’t survive her stroke. And from that day forward, I was uncomfortable in hospitals.

I asked my mom what she remembered about that day. She recounted being so thankful for the nurse who cared for my grandma. He made sure my mom and my grandpa were there with her in her final moments. Mom believes, deep down in her heart, that grandma’s nurse was not a nurse. He was an angel.

Hearing mom’s words instantly turned my heartache into passion. Passion for patients whose lives are changed forever by stroke AND passion for the families who love them.

I was wrong about hospitals. They are special places where babies are born, people are healed, lives are saved, and miracles occur. When you give to the INTEGRIS Foundation, you are a part of these miracles. Your philanthropy is a very important part of the care we give our patients every day.

When I made my annual gift to the INTEGRIS Foundation this year, I saw grandma’s sweet face. Giving allows me to honor her, which feels amazing. Your gift is changing the way care is delivered and received forever. That is IMPACT. And that is why I am so honored to join you.

Community rallies behind burn

After more than 500 patrons gathered together to raise nearly $670,000 for the Paul Silverstein Burn Center in April 2014, the impact of the evening continues to benefit burn patients through improved equipment, continuing education and endowment funding.

Donor generosity has propelled the INTEGRIS Paul Silverstein Burn Center forward on a path toward pain-free burn care with innovative, new technology. Your donations have provided:

- Conscious sedation monitoring equipment and a sedation nurse allowing INTEGRIS to be the only burn center in Oklahoma providing painless burn care
- Transcutaneous oxygen monitoring equipment to measure and determine healing potential
- Wound Center Omnicell system allowing clinical staff to provide medications more efficiently and closer to patient rooms
- Video bronchoscopy equipment allows all vital clinical staff to view procedures providing a concise plan for care
- Pediatric burn care cart giving pediatricians supplies in one place for the smallest burn patients
- Hydrotherapy shower trolley to bathe burn patients during treatment
- Ankle brachial index monitoring equipment and laser doppler imaging to determine blood flow and burn depth in patients for quicker treatment options.

GALA SAVE THE DATE
FOOD is essential for sustaining life. And while we all could benefit from proper nutrition, for someone in the midst of battling cancer, it is even more vital. Yet for many patients and their families dealing with the emotions of a cancer diagnosis, maintaining a well-balanced diet is not initially top of mind. Their energy and focus is on the treatment at hand.

The INTEGRIS CanServe project is designed to meet the dietary needs of these patients and their caregivers during the first week of treatment by providing one hand-crafted meal a day for five days.

The on-site INTEGRIS Cancer Institute dietitian works closely with our community partner, Francis Tuttle Culinary Arts, to prepare perfectly portioned hot and healthy meals that are nutrient appropriate for cancer patients.

The gift of food is meant to provide comfort when it is needed most and to give these families one less thing to worry about. The INTEGRIS CanServe project is made possible by the annual gifts of more than 228 donors who designated cancer as their passion to the INTEGRIS Foundation.

“It is truly a unique and heartfelt gift that makes a positive and immediate impact on the patients we serve,” says Bobbie Gump, business development manager at INTEGRIS Cancer Institute.

“CanServe fills a void by removing the unnecessary worry of preparing a meal, so patients can concentrate on their treatment and their fight.”

“I consider it a blessing to be able to give back in this way. The patients I have seen are all thrilled with the concept, thankful for the support, and pleasantly surprised to have received such a gift from INTEGRIS employees and donors.”

Kimberlee Bourgeois, Concierge at INTEGRIS Cancer Institute

Criteria includes but is not limited to patients who are starting their first week of combination chemotherapy and radiation treatment and/or patients with a greater need who do not have a support system in place.

“I, like many others I know, love being chefs for many reasons that include the knowledge of the craft and creativity. But mostly, I like being of service to people and to have a purpose,” says Marc Dunham, the director of culinary arts at Francis Tuttle. “Food is powerful. It brings people together to accomplish amazing things in this world. This project reinforces the value of giving back to the community in a meaningful way. It reminds us to think of others before we think of ourselves and be trusted stewards of our community.”

The INTEGRIS CanServe project also helps educate patients and their caregivers on how to prepare the types of foods that will better empower and fuel their bodies long after treatment has ended. The program launched in late January and has already served ?? patients, with an expected impact of more than 300 people annually.

Impact: more than 300 people annually.
Nursing education is critical to ongoing clinical excellence throughout the INTEGRIS system, which is why the YOU&I nursing project has provided scholarship assistance to 60 nurses in the last two years. This past year, Saramma Mathew was one of those recipients. “Going back to school was my lifelong dream. The financial burden was one of the major obstacles to cross. I am so humbled to be a recipient of this scholarship. I cried when I opened the mail.”

The privilege of continuing their education and earning a BSN degree to some is one of their greatest passions. “I am very passionate about education, as it comes from a family of teachers,” says Sarah Morris, a scholarship recipient. “It is clear that education influences nursing care, and ultimately there is research that shows this. This why I contribute to the YOU&I campaign nursing fund!”

The YOU&I Nursing fund has given back more than $34,000 to fellow INTEGRIS employees as they work toward their bachelor’s degrees while making INTEGRIS a hospital ready to meet the demands placed on today’s nurses.

Jason Wisdom of Norman believes in miracles, because he feels he is one. In October 2013, the 38-year-old triathlete went from being the picture of health to a man lying paralyzed and unable to speak in a hospital bed. Even doctors were baffled by his rapidly deteriorating condition.

Then came the answer in the form of a small mosquito bite. Wisdom had contracted West Nile Virus and his was the worst case many had ever seen. There is no cure or vaccine. The medical care he received could only treat the symptoms.

Wisdom spent six weeks in the intensive care unit, then a few more weeks in a long-term care facility before being moved to INTEGRIS Jim Thorpe Rehabilitation. There, he learned how to walk again and regained the use of his arms. After more than three months of inpatient rehabilitation, Wisdom finally went home to his wife, Jessica, and 4-year-old daughter.

With the help of continued outpatient rehabilitation, Wisdom was able to walk in the INTEGRIS Jim Thorpe Rehabilitation Courage Run last October. The run is an opportunity to applaud the courage of rehabilitation patients.

His therapists call him an ‘inspiration’ to others, but Wisdom isn’t enthusiastic about that word. “They say ‘inspiration’ and ‘hero,’ and I’ve heard these terms, and I don’t think that I’m that,” Wisdom said. “I think that’s something someone makes a choice to do. They choose to go into a burning building. I’m just dealing with the cards that were dealt to me.”

Still, Wisdom has many supporters. Thirty of them ran alongside him in the race, another 75 cheered him on from the sidelines. They all purchased and wore shirts in his honor reading, “Wisdom’s Courage Squad,” of which there are now hundreds distributed worldwide. And the proceeds were something Wisdom chose to paid forward.

Upon completing the race and selling more than 200 shirts, Wisdom donated proceeds back to Jim Thorpe Rehabilitation’s spinal cord injury patients. It’s his way of giving back to those who are just beginning their rehabilitation journey.
INTEGRIS Angel Update

Last summer, more than 140 INTEGRIS Angels voted to direct philanthropic support that was inspired by their care to provide infant car seats to families in need. Since October, the INTEGRIS Angels have given back more than 10 car seats to metro case management teams for families. This spirit demonstrates a legacy to provide the very best care to their patients and communities.

INTEGRIS employees have graciously given their support to the project, which will help fund conversion of a hospice house room to one specifically tailored for children.

“A children’s hospice room will provide a safe, comfortable, caring environment,” says McKay. “A parent or guardian is required to stay at the hospice house with their loved one. But we help relieve the burden of trying to care for their child in the home … which is sometimes very complicated and exhausting.”

This tough balancing act does not have to be done alone. INTEGRIS Hospice clinical staff, social workers, hospice volunteers and chaplains provide additional support. Pediatric hospice care is both a philosophy and an organized method for delivering compassionate and consistent care to children with chronic, complex and life-threatening conditions. This care focuses on enhancing quality of life, minimizing suffering, optimizing function and providing opportunities for personal and spiritual growth.

Until now, appropriate beds and supplies needed for pediatric patients to stay at the INTEGRIS Hospice House were unavailable. The new pediatric room will provide a comfortable setting for both the child and parents thanks to employee YOU&I project support.

Donations funded end-of-life training for clinical staff, a crib that accommodates newborns to young children, a glider rocker, pediatric medical supplies and sleeper sofa so parents may stay overnight.

“We all deserve comfort and dignity at life’s end,” notes McKay. Providing both for children … may be the greatest gift we can give back to them and their families.”

impact: more than 300 people annually.
Step back and see the incredible difference your annual support makes in so many areas of care and mission. Your personal investment is touching lives through innovative programs, state-of-the-art equipment and renovation of spaces. Thank you for your continual support of your INTEGRIS passion.

BURN / impact: XXX
Burn donors are providing a clearer approach to wound care through gifts to the shower trolley. In addition, funding from the INTEGRIS Gala will provide painless burn care through conscious sedation equipment allowing burn patients to lie down while being bathed in the new shower trolley. The free flowing water improves patient comfort and recovery.

CHILDREN’S PLACE
Children’s Place staff is actively putting your generosity to work by partnering with families and volunteers to complete Phase II of the playground project. By offering a more in-depth outdoor curriculum, the school hopes to create more active opportunities for learning and growth.

ENID
While receiving care at inpatient pediatric mental health treatment at Meadowlakes, children often miss school for many weeks. However, your support is ensuring students keep up with their studies through the purchase of Smartboard technology. In addition to this advancement in classroom technology, an Enid public school teacher visits the campus to provide students the normalcy of a learning environment to maintain their studies.

FERTILITY
Through your generosity, Bennett Fertility Clinic has purchased a flatbed incubator to provide optimal environmental conditions for embryos. The new incubator will complement existing UF incubators through its compact size, ease of being cleaned/disinfected, and decrease use of gases for incubation.

GROVE
INTEGRIS Grove has put annual donors’ gifts to work by helping patients in the community and fellow employees with medication expenses, gas certificates, medical equipment and disaster relief.

HEARING
Because of you, INTEGRIS’ smallest patients are eagerly awaiting the completion of the listening garden at the Cochlear Implant Center where outdoor instruments. The garden will offer hearing patients a new perspective whether through their cochlear implant or hearing aid as they listen to all the different sounds instruments create. All equipment has been purchased and installation is expected within XXXXXXXXX.

HEART
The recovery process post-Left Ventricular Artificial Device (LVAD) surgery can be long, which is why your donations to heart provide families additional comfort during their long stay. Your gifts allowed us to purchase several reclining beds for their newly remodeled rooms providing additional comfort and allowing heart patients’ families to stay long-term with loved ones.

MEN’S HEALTH
Early detection and education can save lives. Men’s health donor’s support creates awareness around this theme in a non-threatening environment. Through one-on-one physician visits at the INTEGRIS Community Clinic, men were given the help desperately needed to detect early chronic issues or seek proper healthcare through a variety of resources. Since many men have not seen a healthcare professional in decades, your generosity has created an opportunity to close this gap in the community.

MENTAL HEALTH
Donors to mental health have infused support to create comfortable rooms for pediatric patients. These relaxing rooms will empower each child to heal and make the better use of therapeutic tools offered before choosing aggression. The project is expected to be completed by late February. Your ongoing support allowed us to purchase dimmer lighting for each room, new paint for a warmer feel, floor pillows, stress balls, therapeutic blankets and many more items.

MIAMI
One of Miami’s mission statements is to provide quality care close to home. Believing a patient’s appearance they have brightened the hospital while providing comfortable amenities to patients.

NEUROMUSCULAR
Donor gifts purchased Smartboard technology to educate and train patients in disease management. Both adult and pediatric patients will have the benefit of Smartboard technology during visits to deliver optimal care.

PASTORAL CARE
Pastoral Care is tackling cutting-edge issues clergy and clinical staff face daily. By equipping clergy to have the proper tools needed to best minister to members of their parish and by offering continuing education for clinical staff at INTEGRIS, your consistent support are making a difference in cultural, religious and spiritual issues facing our communities.

PEDIATRICS
Your gift to pediatrics purchased an infant scale to create more exacting weight data in their smallest patients, along with enhancing patient comfort through the purchase of mini fridges for patient rooms. Giving families an additional homey feel during their long stay is just another way the pediatrics team works to make patient stays easier for families.

REHABILITATION
The INTEGRIS [m. Thorope Rehabilitation All-Terrain Course is anticipated to break ground in spring 2015] on the INTEGRIS Southwest Medical Center campus. The course design will contain rocks, mulch, playground rubber padding, a ramp with wooden decking and a paved trail. Having access to these various terrain and heights will provide patients with the tools necessary to prepare them for various terrain scenarios.

STANLEY HUPFELD ACADEMY
Donors provided a tremendous boost for Stanley Hufeld Academy this past year by giving students significant book and literary supplies. Tobii Campbell, Director of Stanley Hufeld Academy, said, “The book project is the perfect next step for our students. Technology, television, music and video games compete for our children’s time and attention. Recent research indicates our kids need to be encouraged and motivated to open a book, any book, because reading teaches kids how to develop more complex thinking skills. We want our students to have all the tools they need to help them become college and career ready; to compete for the best middle, high school and college placements and in the workforce, and to become productive citizens. Literacy will be the key that unlocks that door for them.”

STROKE
Stroke donations have been put to work saving lives through the Every Second Counts program. Countdown clocks have been purchased for all telestroke locations enabling emergency department clinicians to track the time it takes to place the clot-busting drug t-PA helping to minimize long lasting disability following a stroke.

TRANSPLANT
Patient education is vital to the transplant recovery process. Through donor generosity, expanded videos and educational materials are now provided for patients and families. This impactful project is giving clinicians and survivors the tools needed to provide best-in-class follow-up care and comprehension.

WOMEN’S HEALTH
Thanks to generous donors, we eagerly awaiting the arrival of new breastpumps setting new moms up for the greatest success in their breastfeeding journey. This provision will give newborns the additional resource needed immediately after birth if unable to breastfeed or if there is insufficient milk production from breastfeeding alone.

YUKON
INTEGRIS Canadian Valley hospital celebrates the faithful support of donors whose gifts will provide their community with a new patient education channel. This credible and engaging patient programming will offer a wide variety of health, safety and wellness topics for patients and their families during their in-room hospital stay.

YOU’LL
The Cochlear Impact Clinic is working on the final details to purchase the new auditory brainstem response (ABR) equipment for the Baptist Medical Center operating room. The staff is excitedly awaiting this new device, as it will allow audiologists to estimate hearing ability based on brain activity. This equipment will be dedicated to serving pediatric patients too young to respond to traditional hearing tests or patients with special needs.
